

The LandHorse Vision

Written by Allison Goin for the Jupiter-Uranus Conjunction in Taurus

April 19, 2024

We are not seeking Mount Parnassus.

Mount Parnassus is seeking us.

It is calling us to it, beckoning us, inviting us, beseeching us to come to it, to listen to what it has to say.

Earth is doing her best to communicate with us humans at this time, and the energy is suddenly increasing with the Jupiter-Uranus conjunction in Taurus:

It is flowing at a much higher amperage, it is louder, it is a pounding in our chests that was once only a faint pulsing.

It has become urgent: she is using every available channel to reach us. The horses are direct messengers of Earth. They are heroic volunteers who agreed to try to convey her messages to humans. They have agreed to take on the most difficult job, and they do it with grace, with beauty, with love.

They are trying to show us – through their way of being in harmony with the earth, that we too are in harmony with the earth;

through their power and speed, that we are capable of incredible action;

through their embodiment of pure freedom, that we too are innately free.

Their presence in our lives is a gift – but it also bears a warning: the way we are living cannot continue. The earth cannot tolerate much more exploitation, extraction, destruction. The horses cannot tolerate much more confinement, mistreatment, and deafness to their needs.

The message they are conveying from Earth is a unified message across the planet, which is why there are now people scattered around everywhere with the same ideas, insights, and visions.

The horses are telling us that we need to change how we interact with them, how we care for them and how we see them – but not for their own benefit. They are doing this for ours. They are trying to save us from ourselves by demonstrating the truth to us: that we must learn to hear them again so that we can hear the earth again, so we can hear the mountains calling, the sea weeping, the trees whispering.

To be able to hear the earth again is the only thing that can save us.

The horses want us to take action on their behalf because these actions will be the catalyst for our own awakening, they will restore our ability to act, and our understanding of what action to take.

They do not need us to change their living arrangements just so they can be happy – they are true Bodhisattvas and can live however is needed to be of greatest benefit to others. They need us to change their living arrangements because changing that will change us – it will break open the walls of selfishness, greed, and insensitivity that are holding the entire framework of this materialist society together.

Once we can hear the horses, we can't help but start to hear more: the birds, the flowers, the moon, the earth, each other. We will hear the beating heart of the universe again, it will restore the soul to all living creatures and environments, and suddenly we will know what to do and how to do it. We will put down our phones, our wallets, our laptops, step out of our cars and our houses, look around, and suddenly realize –

We are here – we are alive – and we are not alone!

We are surrounded by other living beings, by a living universe, by a universe animated completely by LOVE. We will be able to act in accordance with love because love is the truth of all life on earth – we are the ones who have gotten out of step with it.

We do not need to seek the truth.

The truth is seeking us.

It wants us to return to it, to remember that we are love, that all things existing on earth are love, that we must treat them lovingly.

The horses have been waiting patiently for us to receive the message. They have accompanied us since the beginning – they were here before us and they will likely be here after us. They tolerate human nonsense because they know the truth already. They need no reminders that their true nature is love, and that they exist in harmony with the earth.

They know. And they want us to know too – so they are telling us what to do to return to that state.

They are fulfilling the role of “horse” to be able to show us in a way we can see clearly what we need to do. The actions they want us to take on their behalf – changing their living environments so they can live in line with their natural instincts;

treating them as equals who are as sensitive and aware as we are;

removing painful devices and interventions that are unnecessary and harmful;

creating harmonious partnerships by building trust;

and helping them to heal traumas and imbalances caused by human actions –

All of these things are also the path to our own awakening, to reinhabiting our bodies and enlivening our souls, to seeing what in the human realm is broken and fixing it, and most importantly, to remembering that we are all one:

We are the horses, and they are us.

The horses are the earth, and the earth is us.

We cannot continue to falsely separate ourselves from the cosmos and expect we will be able to go on existing (for this way of functioning is far from actually living).

We cannot separate ourselves from each other, from our own emotions, from the truth any longer.

The time for awakening on earth is NOW!

LandHorse Post-Script:

If we listen to the horses and listen to the land, they will show us the way back to the truth (to love). This is the true mission behind LandHorse Consulting. We have opened ourselves fully and can hear the horses and the land – in fact, we have no choice but to hear them at this point, which means we are no longer able to stand idly by and do nothing.

We are not trying to use this knowledge to make money, to trademark a training method, to make a name for ourselves, or to judge and criticize others. We are choosing to act on what the horses and the land are telling us because we can no longer live with the internal dissonance created by being able to see, hear, and feel the truth, but not being able to act on it.

To the humans resisting change, who say we are lacking humility or are unable to respect authority: we have just humbled ourselves to a different authority outside of the current human system. We listen to Earth, we listen to horses, we listen to the cosmos, and we listen for the truth – it just so happens that right now, the truth is rarely found coming from human sources. [The truth is love, which is the same as God, but not belonging to a human-created “religion” or system of authority.]

If you are one of us -

if you too can hear the horses, the birds, the earth, if you can feel their grief, if you can see their vision -

We invite you to join us in transforming this current world of suffering into its true potential of love in whatever way most speaks to you.

Currently, one of our ways is through LandHorse, which is the seed of a much greater vision to come. Each horse’s life we change, each part of the earth we support, is also a symbolic gesture to the universe of our willingness to take whatever actions we can to bring everything back into alignment with the truth.

We are here - we are listening - we feel love coming from the horses and from Earth, and we want to return it in kind.

May all horses, all beings, and Earth herself be free from suffering and the causes of suffering.

May we find full freedom in harmony with each other.

May we live authentically alive and from the heart.

May we help each other recover from the grief of past suffering, and may we plant the seeds for the flourishing of love throughout the cosmos.

SOHA! (So Be It)